gest of the space is devoid of pews. At 11:30 o'clock the bride and her party argived. The bridegroom followed soon after ward. Upstairs they had a consultation with the priest, the Rev. Alexander A. Hotovitzky It was just 12 o'clock when the dozen guests en tered and took their places, standing on either side of the room. This left the entire centre for the bridal party. The bride was in a white satin gown, with a perfectly plain skirt trimmed on the right side of the corsage with sprays of orange blossoms. She were a tulle veil fastened with orange blossoms, and was without jewels. She carried a bouquet'of white roses as she en-Sered and as she stood at first. Prince Lieben of Russia, the bridegroom's best man, was his fonly attendant not in full diplamatic uniform. M. Zeinoy, Secretary of the Embassy, M. Zeinoy, his brother, an officer in the Imperial Guard's M. Routsofski, counsellor of the Embassy, and M. Mertwago, military attaché, were the ushers. There were no bridesmaids.

The Rev. Mr. Hotovitsky was in a purple silk robe which reached down to the floor. The white garment over this was embroidered in gold with the Greek cross. At the beginning of the ceremony he came forward and placed lighted tapers in the hands of bride and bridegroom. These they held through the service. As the bride took hers sine handed her bouquet to her father, Willard Parker Tisdel. For half an hour the priest spoke in the Russian tongue. Then two of his assistants came forward holding two gold crowns, which were kissed first by bride and bridegroom, and then were given to the best man and one of the ushers. During the rest of the ceremony the crowns were held over the heads of the bride and bridegroom, but were not for a moment allowed to rest on them. To accomplish this the ushers relieved each other in holding the crowns.

When the ceremony was over the newly married couple walked around the room three times. It was a trying ordeal for the bride, as the heat of the chapel, the windows of which were closed, was intense, and the atmosphere was rendered stifling by clouds of smoke from the censer.

exist. Alcusory came down from Syracuse, where he had been an exile for about two years, and expected his name and fame would draw crowds. But the crowds McGlory longed for gave him the cold shoulder.

He tried several schemes to get the class of people he wanted to patronize his resort, but they all falled. The activity of the police, no doubt, had a good deal to do with their failure. At no time was the resort free from half a dozen policemen in civilians clothes. They acted as a damper on those who might want to be frisky. The owner of the property recently notified McGlory that his rent would be increased. That was more than the dive keeper could stand, and he let it be known that he would get out. He may close up this week.

Masked Mon Rob a Deputy Sheriff.

PARKERSBURG, W. Va., June S .- P. T. Piercy, deputy sheriff of Gilmer county, was robbed at 3 o'clock this morning in his office at the Court Socioex this morning in his office at the Court House of $1,500 in cash. The deed was committed by three men, all wearing masks, who effected an entrance by breaking the door lock. One of the men attacked the deputy, who was in bed, and dealt him a terrible blow on his head, while another choked him into insensibility. They then rified a desk in which the money was locked and made their escape before the deputy could give the alarm.

The next best were Vardon, 154; Taylor, 156; Hilton, 157; Tait, 158; Herd, 159, and D. Herd, 160.

LONDON, May 30 .- It was at Prestwick that a championship tournament was first instituted in the year 1860, and for ten years the meeting took place there, the trophy being a "belt, which in 1870 became the absolute property of the renowned player, young Tom Morris, who ad wen it three times in succession. In 1871 here was no meeting. In 1872 a champton cup was instituted, and this has been played for an-nually ever since, the rotation of greens, which has been altered from time to time to include some of the best English courses, being now Prestwick, 1898; Sandwich, 1899; St. Andrew's, 1900; Muirfield, 1901; Hoylake, 1902, and so on. Golf is an old story at Prestwick, there being a pre-reformation tradition of a laird of Culzeau having to play a match with a monk of Cross vaguel "for his nose." The Prestwick Club, under whose auspices the meeting is held, was formed in 1851. At that time the annual subscription was 6 pence, while now the entry money is £15, and the annual subscription £3. The members are mostly well-to-do Glasgow men, and the train drops them at the clubbouse after a smart train drops them at the clubhouse after a smart run of thirty-seven miles from the city. The course is the property of the club and is private, but golfers can have a week's play on payment of £1. Those who have entered for the cham-zionship are of course allowed free play for some time before. The Prestwick course is one of the finest in Great Britain, and is situated on sandy dunes along the cust shore of the Firth of Clyde, the Great Britain, and is situated on sandy dunes along the cast shore of the Firth of Clyde, the links from several points commanding aplendid views of Arran, Alisa Craig, the Carrick Hills and the Bay of Ayr. The ground abounds in every conceivable hazard to test golfing capabilities and call out golfing enthusiasm from the wild risk of the "Lion's Den" to the gigantic bunkers of the "Cardinal" or the "Hilmalayas." It is the opinion of the present champlon, Hilton, that the "Cardinal," which meets the player on the way to the third hole, is the most formidable in the world. It was in this bunker that a new system of counting was said to have been inaugurated. "How many have you played?" asked a golfer of his opponent, who for a considerable time had been raising clouds of sand in the depths thereof. "I don't know," was the reply. "I entered the—place at half-past 11, I've been playing ever since and its nearly 12 now, so you can calculate for yourself." A burn winds its way through the course and forms a hazard at the third, fourth, fifth and eleventh holes. The railway is hazardous at the first, seventh and eighth holes. The "Himalayas" is the name given to a high and awful heap of sandhills which its between the tee and the putting green at hole 5, it requires a fine lofty shot to land on the green. At the fourteenth hole the player is near the clubhouse, but has to make a detour of four holes to complete the orthodox eighteen. Old Tom Morris at St. Andrew's was once greenReeper here, and it was here that his son, young Tom, perhaps the greatest player that has ever lived, plaked un the game. The record of the green is held by Willie Campbell, now at 180 ston, in charge of the Franklin Park links, and is 71, made up as follows:

The "par" of the round is 74, but anything under 80 implies fine play. The last time the championship was played here was in the year 1893, when Willie Auchterionic of St. Andrew's

H. H. Hilton, the amateur, is the present open champion. At the end of the first day's play at Hoylake last year James Braid, the Romford professional led with 154 and Hilton was a professional, sed with 104, and Hillon was a stroke higher. Park was twenty-second on the list, with 172. He, however, won the title in 1887 and 1889, and, as his recent match with Fernie showed, is playing the game of his life, Vardon and Taylor have also been winners in the open event.

It was arranged yesterday that the winner of the Morosini Cup in the public tournament at Van Cortlandt Park on Saturday will receive a choice of golfing goods, as well as the second and third man. The cup is a handsome three-handled loving cup, and must be won twice to become personal property. Additional entries received yeaterday were A. Griswold Lesley, G. H. Lesley, J. T. Headley, John Ewen, Victor M. Tyler, George W. Butts, Jr., and Paul S. O'Connor. In all, twenty-two have entered, a fine showing for unattached golfers. Since the first public tournsment, in 1896, the last bole at Van Cortlandt has been shortened from 700 yards to 550, and, on the drive, it is necessary to clear a part of the pond. Formerly the play on this hole lacked variety, two small bunkers forming the only hazards. A number of other changes have been made, making the playing distance of the links 2.766 yards. LAUNCH OF THE AMERICAN. Powerful New Steam Yacht Successfully Floated Testerday. Archibald Watt's new steam yacht American was launched from the ways of the Jonson Engineering and Foundry Company, foot of East 118th street, yesterday afternoon. The new craft is thoroughly American in every particular from truck to keelson, was built by American workmen from American material, and was christened with a bottle of American wine swathed in the American colors.

As the yacht rested on her cradle her appearance suggested solidity and strength rather than the usual rakish lines of the average American-built yacht. Her clipper bow, which will be finished with a long bowsprit and jibboom, is almost a straight line at an angle of forty-five degrees to the turn of the forefoot. The entrance at the water line is too full for speed, no matter what amount of power is exerted to drive her through the water. Her floors are almost flat and the turn of her bilges is as full as those of an ocean freighter. The lines of her run are somewhat finer than those forward of the midship section, and she will leave the water with considerably less fuss than she enters it. She is fitted with broad bilge keels to keep her from rolling in a scaway, and altogether has every appearance of unusual weatherly qualities. She is fitted with twin screws and will be driven by two specially designed engines of 1,000 horse power each. Her owner expects to develop a speed of fifteen knots. She has two large deckhouses, and the roof of the forward one will be equipped with the latest steering gear. She will have three masts square rigged and will have the unique distinction of being the only yacht in America whose auxiliary power is that of a full-rigged ship.

The launch was successful, although the element of luck was somewhat in evidence. Shortly after 1 o'clock the launching party took their positions on the platform and the yacht began to recede from the platform. Mrs. Watt, wife of the owner, shattered the customary bottle of champagne across the forefoot, exclaiming at the same instant, "I christen the American." When about half way down the inclined plane the ways on the port side spread, and the yacht careened to a degree that looked dangerous for a moment, while the water was full of flying timbers that formed the cradie. It was only for a moment, however, owing to the flat floor of the yacht and her momentum, and is as full as those of an ocean freighter. The full of flying timbers that formed the cradic. It was only for a moment, however, owing to the flat floor of the yacht and her momentum, and she slid out into open water with a courtesy to the empty ways.

Contrary to the usual custom, there was no line from her stern to the buikhead, and the tugs that were depended upon to catch her in the stream were so slow that she drifted almost over to Randail's Island said let go her starboard anchor before they had her under control. She was towed alongside the piles, where she will remain while her machinery is being placed on board. The principal dimensions of the new yacht are: Length over all, 254 feet; length on water line, 200 feet; moulded leam, 34 feet 6 inches, and draught, 12 feet 6 inches.

WILMINGTON, Del., June 8.-Howard Gould, Miss Catherine Clemmens, and Capt. Shackford visited the Harlan & Hollingsworth shipyard to-day for a final inspection of the yacht Niagara. A large force of workmen has been employed on the wacht within the past few days, as an order came from Mr. Gould on Friday last to have the boat finished as soon as possible. Mr. Gould expressed his complete possible. Air. Gould expressed his complete satisfaction with the work, and the builders informed him that the Nisgara would be ready to sail for New York, where she will receive her interior fittings, on Friday afternoon. After these have been taken aboard the yacht will return to the Delaware River to have her speed turn to the Delaware River to have her speed tested over the measured mile.

When asked as to the details of the Niagara's initial trip, Mr. Gould said the tour would probably be an extensive one, but that he had not yet completed the details. He intimated, however, that the Mediterranean would be the first objective point. He said Capt. Shackford would have complete charge of the yacht. She will probably be seen in New York waters early on Saturday.

to a thirsty plant is not more grateful than a Summer Suit to a man sweltering in Winter clothing during these warm Summer days. The prices at which we are selling Summer suits (owing to our desire to reduce our stock in consequence of the death of Mr. Henry W. King) makes it possible for every man and boy to possess a good all wool suit for a small expenditure of money.

Our Men's All Wool Suits selling for $6.00, $8.00, $10.00 and $12.00, and Boys' Suits (aged 6 to 16) for $1.98, $2.25, $3.00 and $4.00, are worth fully 50 per cent. more than the prices asked for them. It is impossible to quote more than a few prices. To appreciate the bargains you must see for yourself.

Kid Lavigne is now after Joe Walcott, but it is doubtful if any match will be made between them. Lavigne saw Tom O'Rourke on Tuesday night, and a match with Welcott was breached. They could not agree to the weight and the matter fell through, Billy havigne, the Kid's brether, said preserday that Lavigne may not fight again until next fall. Much interest is being taken in the coming struggle between Tommy Ryan and Tommy West, which will be decided at the Lemox A. C. next Monday right. Ryan is a hot favorite at 100 to 80, and his friends are taking all the money in sight. Kid McCoy will be
